Far from Home, Two Young Lovers Dance with Destiny in New Romance, Dream World

A young couple meets, falls in love ... and meets with unexpected romantic entanglements.

April 17, 2015 – Denver, CO, and Sun City West, AZ – Young love meets reckless lust in the torrid new romance, Dream World: Tales of American Life in the 20th Century. The romantic fiction is published by Outskirts Press.

When Liz Anderson, valedictorian of her high school class, scouts colleges for her junior year, she can't get far enough from her Michigan home to satisfy her wanderlust. Landing at Lake Shore College in Florida, she's discovering a whole new world – and the new people who inhabit it.

There, she meets Willie, a fellow student who, like Liz, gets work at Dream World to fund his away-from-home college existence. The attraction is instant and intense, and the two date and fall in love. But it's not long before Willie gets cold feet. Feeling unprepared for commitment, he breaks it off with Liz without explanation, only to begin a torrid romance with Sue.

Therein lies the twist: Willie doesn't love Sue. By the time he realizes he wants Liz back, he must compete with a new rival for her affection. What is Willie willing to do to get back in the lovely Liz's good graces? Is the hurt young woman too embroiled in her new romance to be won over again? And where does this tangled web leave Sue?
